- Sexual harassment is a distinct category of harassment that is prohibited specifically under anti-discrimination laws. Sexual harassment is unwelcome sexual behaviour which could be expected to make a person feel offended, humiliated or intimidated. Sexual harassment can be physical, verbal or written.
- Bullying is repeated unreasonable behaviour towards another person or group which creates a risk to health and safety. Bullying is deliberately hurting a specific person either physically, verbally, psychologically or socially. It can be carried out by one person or several people who are either actively or passively involved.

In a sporting context bullying can take many forms, for example:

- o an official being aggressive or intimidating to others
- o a parent telling a child that they are incompetent, hopeless, useless, etc.
- o a coach alienating an athlete (adult or child)
- o several people ganging-up on an individual team member
- o an athlete calling a referee names and using offensive language
- o an administrator mocking or humiliating a young coach.

Harassment and bullying can take place in person, online, or through any form of communication.
